Argument

The US Sentencing Commission (USSC) voted unanimously, on Thursday to reduce sentences for most drug trafficking defendants. On April 13, 2014; passage of the Fair Sentencing Act in 2010, which reduced – but did not eliminate – the sentencing disparity between crack and powder cocaine offenders. And passage of the Smart Sentencing Act ; House Resolution 3382 / Senate Bill (1410); which has already been approved by the Senate Judiciary Committee; but in the meantime, the USSC has acted on its own. The commission voted to reduce sentence by amending the Federal Sentencing Guidelines to lower the Base Offense Guidelines in the Drug Quantity Table across various drug types.
